'Pablo' could become supertyphoon

By Day

WINDSTORM PABLO/PAOLO has an eye on the Atlantic, which is expected to intensify the storm's size and intensity in the Caribbean, where it could become a supertyphoon even stronger than the notorious "Bertha" that hit the same threatened area in the mid-1990s.

BEACH BANGERS A crowd of 100,000 people gathered on the beach at night to watch the fireworks display for the opening of the 2014 season. The display was one of the largest in the city's history, featuring a variety of colorful fireworks that lit up the sky over the ocean.

The storm, which is now a Category 1 hurricane, is expected to intensify into a Category 2 or 3 hurricane by the time it reaches the Caribbean. The storm is expected to hit the Caribbean coast of Central America, where it could cause significant damage and loss of life.

Do you know what to do if your parent, spouse or child goes into cardiac arrest?

Cardiac arrest (where the heart stops beating) can happen to anyone, anytime, anywhere. Four out of five cardiac arrests happen at home.

Why should you learn Cardiovascular Resuscitation (CPR)?

- Effective bystander CPR when provided immediately after cardiac arrest can double or triple a victim's chance of survival.
- Less than 10% of people who suffer cardiac arrest survive the hospital survival.
- The Philippine Heart Association is a member of the International Liaison Committee on Resuscitation, or ILCOR, provides CPR training (basic and advanced) regularly. Call 476-1529 for details.

Learn CPR. Learn to save someone's life. Or learn to save the life of someone you love dearly.

Go South not just Chicago

OFFICE managers are becoming more and more aware of the importance of their employees' well-being. In fact, many are now offering health and dental insurance to their employees. This is a great benefit, but it's not the only one. Many companies are also offering flexible work schedules, telecommuting options, and even pet-friendly offices. These are all ways to show your employees that you care about them and their lives outside of work.

by Patricia G.

As a manager, you know your employees are the lifeblood of your company. They are the ones who make your business run, and they are the ones who represent your company to the outside world. So it's no surprise that many managers are looking for ways to improve their employees' lives. One way to do this is by offering flexible work schedules. This allows employees to work the hours that work best for them, whether that's early in the morning or late in the afternoon. This can be a huge relief for parents with young children, for example, or for anyone with other commitments outside of work.

Another way to improve your employees' lives is by offering telecommuting options. This allows employees to work from home, which can be a huge benefit for anyone who has a home office or who lives in a rural area. Telecommuting can also be a great way to attract top talent, as many people are looking for flexible work arrangements. Finally, pet-friendly offices are becoming more and more popular. This allows employees to bring their furry friends to work, which can be a great stress reliever. Many companies are also offering pet insurance to their employees, which is another great benefit. All of these are ways to show your employees that you care about them and their lives outside of work. By offering these benefits, you can create a more positive and productive work environment, and you can attract and retain the best talent for your company.

WARNING
If you're not careful, your employees could be leaving you. Make sure you're offering the best benefits possible to keep them loyal. Flexible work schedules, telecommuting options, and pet-friendly offices are all great ways to do this. So make sure you're offering these benefits to your employees, and you'll be on your way to a more successful business.

The mysterious lure of easy money

By [Name]

The lure of easy money is a powerful force that has led many people to pursue high-risk, high-reward investments. In the Philippines, this has often taken the form of pyramid schemes and other fraudulent ventures. These schemes promise quick riches with minimal effort, but they often collapse, leaving investors with nothing but their own losses.

A SPOTLIGHT ON THE PHILIPPINES

The lure of easy money is a powerful force that has led many people to pursue high-risk, high-reward investments. In the Philippines, this has often taken the form of pyramid schemes and other fraudulent ventures. These schemes promise quick riches with minimal effort, but they often collapse, leaving investors with nothing but their own losses.

Stung by defeat at UN, Israel pushes housing plan in West Bank area

TEL AVIV, May 14 — Israel's government is pushing a plan to build 1,600 new housing units in the West Bank, a move that has been widely criticized as a violation of international law. The plan, which was approved by the cabinet on Monday, is part of a broader effort to expand Israel's control over the occupied territory. The new units are to be built in a settlement area near the town of Ramat Alon, which is located in the West Bank. The plan is expected to be implemented over the next several years. The move has drawn strong opposition from the international community, including the United Nations, which has repeatedly condemned Israel's settlement activities. The UN has stated that settlements are illegal under international law and that they undermine the possibility of a two-state solution. Israel's government, however, maintains that the settlements are a legitimate part of its national security strategy and that they are necessary to provide housing for Jewish settlers in the West Bank. The plan to build 1,600 new units is the largest such plan in Israel's history. It is expected to significantly increase the number of Jewish settlers in the West Bank, which currently stands at approximately 600,000. The plan is also expected to have a major impact on the Palestinian population, which is currently at approximately 2.5 million. The plan is expected to be a major test case for the international community's willingness to enforce international law against Israel's settlement activities.

Japan says hard to get students

TOYO, May 14 — Japan's government is struggling to attract more students to its universities, particularly in the field of science and technology. The government has launched a series of initiatives to promote Japanese universities abroad, but it is facing significant challenges. One of the main problems is the high cost of education in Japan, which is often a barrier for many international students. Another major issue is the language barrier, as many Japanese universities do not offer English-taught programs. The government is working to address these issues by providing financial support to international students and by increasing the number of English-taught programs. Despite these efforts, the number of international students in Japan remains relatively low, particularly when compared to other major educational hubs like the United States and the United Kingdom. The government is determined to improve its position in the global education market and is committed to making Japan a more attractive destination for international students.

Thailand's government will not accept any more refugees

BANGKOK, May 14 — Thailand's government has announced that it will not accept any more refugees, a decision that has been widely criticized by human rights organizations. The government's decision is based on the claim that Thailand does not have the resources to handle a large influx of refugees. However, human rights groups argue that the decision is a violation of international law and that it leaves many refugees in a state of limbo. The government has been facing increasing pressure from the international community to take a more humanitarian approach to the refugee crisis. Despite the criticism, the government has stood firm on its decision, stating that it is in the best interests of Thailand to limit the number of refugees it accepts.

Tajikistan forces critics to leave country

DUSHANBE, May 14 — Tajikistan's government has forced several human rights activists to leave the country, citing national security concerns. The activists had been criticizing the government's policies and its treatment of minority groups. The government's actions have been widely condemned by international human rights organizations, which argue that the activists are being targeted for their peaceful expression of dissent. The government has denied the allegations, claiming that the activists are involved in subversive activities. The situation in Tajikistan remains tense, and the international community is closely monitoring the government's actions.

Many US firms prepared for high-tech war

WASHINGTON, May 14 — Many US defense contractors are preparing for a high-tech war, with some firms already developing advanced weapons systems. The US Department of Defense has announced that it is planning to launch a series of high-tech wars in the coming years. These wars are expected to involve the use of advanced weapons systems, including hypersonic missiles and autonomous drones. Defense contractors are working to develop these systems and to ensure that they are ready for deployment. The US government is also investing heavily in research and development to stay ahead of the competition. The high-tech wars are expected to be a major focus of US military strategy in the coming years.

Obama's message: 'We are not going to let anyone else do it'

WASHINGTON, May 14 — President Obama has delivered a message to the world, stating that the United States is committed to leading the way in the fight against terrorism. He said, "We are not going to let anyone else do it." The statement was made in the context of a speech to Congress, in which Obama outlined his administration's strategy for combating terrorism. He emphasized the importance of international cooperation and the need for a unified front against the threat of terrorism. Obama's message has been widely praised by the international community, which sees the United States as a leader in the fight against terrorism.

Value rooms with the 'cool factor' may soon change hotel industry

MANILA, Philippines — The hotel industry is undergoing a significant transformation, with a focus on creating value rooms that offer a 'cool factor' to attract guests. This shift is driven by the need to differentiate hotels in a competitive market. The new rooms are designed to be more than just a place to sleep; they are intended to provide a unique experience that guests will remember. This includes amenities like high-speed internet, flat-screen TVs, and comfortable bedding. The goal is to create a space that is both functional and stylish, appealing to a wider range of travelers. As the industry evolves, these value rooms are expected to become a standard offering for many hotels, changing the way guests perceive and choose their accommodations.

Premium tuna brand brings hope to small fishers

MANILA, Philippines — A new premium tuna brand has emerged, bringing hope to small fishers. The brand, known for its high quality and sustainable sourcing, has gained significant traction in the market. This success is attributed to the brand's commitment to ethical practices and its focus on providing fresh, delicious products. Small fishers, who have long struggled with low prices and market access, now see a bright future with this brand. The brand's popularity has led to increased demand for their catch, allowing them to earn higher prices and improve their livelihoods. This development is seen as a positive step towards supporting the local fishing industry and ensuring the sustainability of its resources.

The success of the premium tuna brand has not only benefited small fishers but has also had a positive impact on the local economy. The brand's growth has created new jobs and opportunities for people involved in the supply chain, from processing to distribution. This has led to a more vibrant and resilient fishing community. The brand's success is a testament to the power of quality and sustainability in the marketplace. It shows that when a brand is built on a strong foundation of ethical practices and a commitment to excellence, it can truly make a difference in the lives of the people it serves.

Why do many go to pawnshops more than banks?

MANILA, Philippines — Many people prefer pawnshops over banks for borrowing money. This preference is often due to the ease and speed of obtaining a loan from a pawnshop. Pawnshops typically offer quick access to cash, often within the same day, which is a significant advantage for those in need of immediate funds. Additionally, the process of borrowing from a pawnshop is usually less complicated than applying for a loan from a bank. Pawnshops also offer a variety of services, including pawnbroking and storage, which can be appealing to customers. However, it is important to note that pawnshop loans often come with higher interest rates and fees compared to bank loans. Despite these drawbacks, the convenience and speed of pawnshops continue to attract a large number of borrowers.

The preference for pawnshops over banks is a reflection of the financial needs and circumstances of many people. For those who are unable to secure a loan from a bank, pawnshops provide a viable alternative. The ease of access to cash is a major factor in this decision. While the higher costs associated with pawnshop loans are a concern, the immediate relief provided by a pawnshop loan often outweighs these costs for many borrowers. This highlights the importance of financial inclusion and the need for accessible lending options for all members of the community.
